Employment History

1. 2012 – present. Research Consultant – Self-employed, Associated with Gentium Consulting. With 30 years of applied and academic research experience, I have particular expertise in the areas of qualitative research methods and analysis; research design, training, and project management; writing and editing; and community-based collaboration in a variety of public, community, and mental health content areas.

2. 2009 – 2012. Research Advisor, Population Health Improvement Research Network (PHIRN); Editor, *É/Exchange Working Paper Series, Population Health Improvement Research Network, University of Ottawa.

I provided research and liaison consulting to the staff and members of the PHIRN. I chaired the Qualitative Journal Club, a monthly forum for discussion of qualitative research methods for faculty, research staff, and graduate students. As well, I have developed and served as Editor of the É/Exchange Working Paper Series, a peer reviewed online publication for Ontario researchers, community-members and policy makers, funded by the Ontario Ministry of Health and Long Term Care.

2. 2010 – 2012. Editor/Co-Author, Multiple Interventions for Community Health Nursing Practice, CHSRF/CIHR Chair, University of Ottawa. Book Editor: One book on developing programs of research for emerging researchers, and one on developing international nursing research internships. Both projects required writing, editing, working with contributors, developing prospectuses and liaising with publishers.

3. 1994-2009 Research Associate with the Community Health Research Unit (CHRU).

The CHRU was a Health system-linked research unit between the University of Ottawa Faculty of Medicine and the City of Ottawa's health unit, Ottawa Public Health. My role was to facilitate the research of investigators to result in practice-useful theory and theory-informed practice. Besides serving as investigator for research of personal interest to me, I aided others in developing all aspects of the research process, from research idea generation and design, project management, analysis, through to publication. As well as working collaboratively with senior investigators as a co-investigator, in the design and writing phases, I was generally responsible for project management. Besides research skills, the abilities to engage practitioners in research activities and to work with and head committees were required. Further, mentoring others, both investigators and staff, in developing qualitative research skills was an ongoing teaching function. As Senior Qualitative Research Associate, I supervised staff on the Qualitative Research Team. Also, for the last three years, I was the major liaison with our Government of Ontario funders, and was closely involved in leading projects resulting in Ministry deliverables. The final two years, I headed up the planning, organization and running of the Multiple Intervention Program Symposium.
